THE HAWAIIAN AFFAIR.

stements in the Address of Ex-Minister Stevens to the American People.

One year's careful observation of the existing teonid not long continue. The death of Kalthrone revealed many facts and circumstances which showed how utterly victous and demoralizing the monarchy had become. Bad as had been the courtiers and favorite companions and this semi-barbaric King, those whom illuokalani, immediately drew around were sull worse. The death of her brother, owed by that of her lawful husband, did not revent her from appointing to the chief ex-otive effice of the islands the Tahitian half-bite, who had sustained scandalous relations th her, and whom she now installed in her bace, though he had a lawfully married wife.

When the Queen attempted to overthrow the constitutional government of the islands, and to establish a despotism, a and civilization of Hawaii, resolved to row off the yoke of a degrading and de-aded loyalty, and form a popular govern-ent. Of this meeting, and what followed, fr. Stevens says:

The assemblage was a unit in opinion and purpose. It was stirred by a common sentiment, the love of county and the desire for public order and public scenity. It took its measures wisely and prudently. Its Committee of Public Exfety asked us to land the men of the Boston, lest riot and incendiarism might burst out in the night, for no retinuic police force longer existed, and whatever there was of this force was now in the control of the usurpers and the lottery xamblers, who had initiated the revolution. Under the diplomatic and naval rules, which were and are imperative, the United States minister and navel commander would have shamefully benored their duty had they not landed the men of the Beston for the security of American life and property and the maintenance of public order, even had the Committee of Public Safety not requested us to do so. The Tests of the Air Ship Have Proved Satisfactory, and the Work of Manufacturing Is Now Progressing with a Full Force.

air ship patents, was at the Bates yesterday on his way to Chicago from Cineinnati. The Journal was misinformed as to the alleged connection of Zimri Dwiggins with the air ship company. Mr. Pennington says that neither Dwiggins nor the Starbucks had anything to do with the air ship scheme; that they neither held nor disposed of any of the company's stock. Dwiggins has no connection whatever with the air ship company, which includes among its stockholders some of the bestknown tinancial men of Chicago. Mr. Pennington says that he did not even know Dwiggins until a short time ago, when he was introduced to him.

Mr. Pennington further states that every test of his patent has been satisfactory. A year ago last summer tests were made at St. Louis, and they showed the aerial machine capable of making a speed of sixty miles an hour. Tests were made for this full distance of sixty miles. The company now manufacturing the machines has moved to Chicago Heights, Ill., where the work is going on with a full force of men employed. The company is making macaines to throw or drop dynamite, and the French government is now experimenting, near Paris, with the machines, with a view of buying the Pennington patents held by the company of which Mr. Pennington is at the head. The company has patents in thirty-two countries. The propelling power of these machines is furnished by igniting gas drawn into the cylinders of the engines with an electric spark.

During the Chilian flurry Secretary Tracy consulted the officers of the company in regard to furnishing the government with the machines. Since the French government has begun to test the Pennington machine, the United States government has put $50,000 in the hands of Prof. Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution. with which to experiment on air ships. The machine has been completed, but the result of the test has not yet been made

Mr. Pennington is also the president of the Illinois Electric Railway Company, which is interested in street-car properties in Chicago, operating under the Pennington patents. Several of the company's motors are running on the West Side.

OLD BROAD RIPPLE GAS COMPANY.

History of Its Organization Recalled by the Recent Deal with the Consumers' Trust.

As noted in Friday's Journal, the Consumers' Trust Company has made an arrangement with the Union Loan and Trust Company, owned by the family of J. M. Westcott, of Richmond, whereby the payment of the bonds due in September of this year, amounting to $125,000, are to be paid in deferred installments. The company paid Mr. Westcott $25,000 on Thursday, and will pay $25,000 more on Nov. 1. The balance is to be paid in installments of $35,000 until paid. The interest is to run on at the same rate. The purpose of the company in choosing to defer the liquidation of these bonds is to give sufficient funds to make some large-sized extensions in the gas field. The plan is to increase the supply into the field which falls to it in the recent division of the territory among the gas companies operating in the

Mr. Westcott was the first to pipe gas into this city. It is well known that he always has a large amount of ready money on hand, and in the first days of the discovery of gas in this State he was interested in a company proposing to organize to pipe gas to Richmond from the Anderson field. Some disagreement arose among the leading capitalists in the company as to the amount of stock each should have, and the project fell through. Mr. Westcott always insists upon a controlling interest in everything in which he invests. Having a large sum ready for such investment, he came to Indianapolis and bought the gas wells at Broad Ripple, The right of way was secured into the city, the principal main leading south on Illinois street. The company, which operated wholly on Westcott money made extensions and ramifications until there were twenty miles of mains giving service of gas in the city. The demand, however, became more than Mr. Westcott desired to supply, considering the amount required to pipe the streets, and he sold out to the Consumers' company, sustaining something of a loss. "I have dropped $60,000 over at Indianapolis," he said one day after disposing of his plant, "but where I lost $1 there I will make $2 this year somewhere else." The terms of the sale included bonds to the amount of $125,-000, and it is these that figure in the arrangement periected as above related. It is said that the company has the money with which to pay the bonds, but chooses to spend it in making improvements.

CAPITAL BANK.

President Wilson Expects to Be Able to Resume Payments Next Week.

Special Bank Examiner Young was busy at the hotel vesterday preparing his report on the Capital National Bank's condition so that it could go to the Controller of the Currency in the evening mail. The officials of the bank looked up the national banking law yesterday relative to the procedure of resuming business, and they found that the directors could, by a vote among themselves, determine whether or not to resume. When asked yesterday when the bank would resume President Wilson said:

"That depends entirely upon when we receive word from the Controller of the Currency. He is an arbitrary person in this matter. When we resume we will have all or more money than we need. I have insisted all along, and I think the examiner agreed with me, after he saw the condition of the bank, that it was not necessary to have suspended. We have been assured by many of our depositors that they will continue to do business with the bank after it resumes." It is expected that instructions from the Controller will be received before the middle of next week. The rumor was current on the street yesterday that the directors and stockholders of the Chemical National Bank, in Chicago. would to-day hold a meeting to decide whether the bank should resume business. The outcome of this meeting will be watched with interest here on account of its connection with the Capital. St. Mary's Commencement.

ANNIE WAGNER IN THE JAIL Bahr. The board found in computing the day, but found the auditing comm

Declares Her Innocence and Does Not Comprehend the Gravity of Her Case.

Her Sister Now Recalls Having Given Her a Box of Rat Poison Last Christmas-Preliminary Hearing Postponed.

Applie Wagner, the alleged poisoner of the Koesters family, was removed from the police station to a cell in the jail yesterday morning. At 9 o'clock she was arraigned before the police judge, and entered a plea of not guilty. Her case was continued until next Wednesday, and she was immediately ordered to the jail. There were few new developments in the case yesterday, and the prisoner continues in her vehement declarations that she purchased no poison at the drug store, a fact which is considered to be the most damaging piece of evidence against her, if truly established. Charles Koesters, the man who has suffered the loss of his family by deaths presumed to have been brought about through the wicked work of the wretched girl, has opened his store again, and has resumed his daily routine of business, feeling happily secure that the remainder of his little family are saie from the machinations of the misguided, erring woman. Those who have seen and talked to Annie Wagner are struck with the blank and apparently unconcerned features of the girl when she is approached on the subject of the crime of which she is accused. She apparently does not realize the awful import of the charge of murder which stands against her on the police records. She is illiterate only in the ways of the American people. Frightened and dazed at the manner in which she has been arrested. possessed with the innate disposition of the stolid German, she is totally unable to grasp with her befuddled brain the magnitude of the charges heaped against her. So swift has been the denunciation and so overpowering the evidence-circumstantial as it is-found against her, that the public mind has fallen in with the prevailing suspicion and rumor and without a demar has pronounced her guilty beyond

Charles Koesters is apparently honest in his belief that at least three members of the family died at the hands of his domestic. And he does not stand as her sole accuser. The physicians who attended the family in the dying hours assert that it is highly probable that, aside from the infant child, each member was administered poison. Yet there is a shadow of possibility that Annie Wagner may be innocent of the awful accusations. Charles Koesters now says that his mother did not eat a mouthful of food on the day that she atended the outing in the woods. While she did not complain of being sick she declined to eat and, instead, drank several glasses of lemonade. She came home in the evening and was attacked with a violent fit of vomiting from which her son does not remember whether or not she suffered before or after eating the supper prepared by the

On the day of her arrest Annie positively averred that her sister, Mrs. Bergman, had given her the box of Rough on Rats a few weeks before Christmas. This statement the sister denied on Thursday, but yesterday admitted to the detectives that she remembered of handing the girl the poison At first Mrs. Bergman insisted that the drug was poured out in a paper, but afterward decided that it was in a box.

Yesterday John G. Ohleyer, brother-inlaw of Charles Koesters, appeared before the coroner, and, on his oath, stated that he believed his relatives all died from poison, and requested that the bodies be exhumed and examined for evidences of arsenic. Dr. L. A. Storch, of No. 687 South Meridian street, testified that he was called to attend Mrs. Koesters on Monday evening, and that her son had summoned him with the remark: "Mother is suffering just like father did, vomiting and parging." The Doctor stated yesterday that he suspected poison, but made no mention of the fact, and signed the death certificate, "Congestion of the stomach. Dr. Eisenbeiss, the chemist who made the analysis of the stomach of Mrs. Clara Koesters, is stanch in his belief that the tests which he has already applied have given the true cause of death. He states that he took the organs through three or four different operations, all accepted by the medical profession as infallible, and in each test the presence of arsenic was abundantly established. In view of this fact it is now the intention to unearth the other members of the Koesters family and submit their stomachs to the same analysis. In case they died from arsenical poisoning the drug will be easily found, since the undertaker who buried the bodies states that he embalmed but one, that of Mrs.

Mary Koesters, who was the first to die. A FESTIVAL NEXT YEAR.

Vote of the Directors Unanimous-Deficit of $1,428 75 to Be Made Up.

The directors of the May Festival Association met last night at the Denison. The finance committee had a complete report of all the expenses incurred in the preparations for the festival, and reported a deficit of receipts under expenses amounting to $1,428.75. This equals 18 per cent. of the guarantee fund. It was ordered that an assessment of that amount be levied upon the guarantors. The vote on the sense of the board as to the propriety of giving a festival next year was unanimons in favor of a festival at that time.

A vote of thanks was extended to those who contributed their services free at the concert. These were Miss Sadie Walker, Miss Maxwell, Mr. Schliewen and Professor | of Agriculture, arrived in the city yestercost of the single concert that the expenses ran up nearly as high for the one entertainment in the matter of printing, advertising, telegraphing, etc., as they would have been for the festival as originally contemplated.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT.

Public to Be Given an Exhibition of Scene-Shifting-Empire Employes' Benefit.

The patrons of the Park Theater will be treated to a novel exhibition on the night of June 12, given for the benefit of Indianapolis Lodge, No. 32, of the Theatrical Mechanics' Association. The company playing at the Park on that night will play for the benefit of the lodge, and show the audience just how the scenes are set and shifted. Everything will be done before the people, and to those who have never been behind the scenes and seen the work performed it will be very interesting. When the curtain goes up on the first act the stage will be perfectly clear, all the aprons up and the ceiling lights in full view of the audience. Then before their eyes the men will set the scenery for the first act. At the end of the act the curtain will be dropped, but immediately raised and the scenery removed and that for the next act set in the same

SMALLPOX AT ALEXANDRIA.

Dr. Metcalf Says There Is No Doubt that It Is Genuine-Its Origin Is a Mystery.

Dr. Metcalf, secretary of the State Board of Health, was in Alexandria yesterday to investigate the case of smallpox which has been discovered there. He says that there is no doubt that the disease is smallpox, but there is much mystery surrounding its origin. The patient had been in Elwood and other of the gas cities, where there is a constant stream of strangers coming and going, and he may have come in contact with the germ in this way. His wife, who has a babe of only a few weeks' age, was taken down with the disease on Thursday, and on Friday his mother showed symptoms of the disease. Every effort has been made to prevent its further spread, and it is thought that these patients will recover. All who have been in contact with the family have been vaccinated. Nothing has as yet been heard of the nurse, who ran away to New Albany on discovering that his patient had small-

Barbers Are Rather Dubious About Pushing the Scheme Through.

Employing barbers to the number of six or eight met again last night at the Denison House shop to consider the proposed movement to increase the price of shaving to 15 cents. Those who were present decided that it was best before proceeding further to try to induce several leading proprietors to join in the movement. The time set for the increase (June 15) was therefore indefinitely postponed. The leaders in this movement will seek to enlist the journeymen's union in it, and for this purpose will meet with the union on Menday night. Another meeting will then be held on Tuesday night in order to give the subject further consideration. New Cracker Factory. George Hitz & Co. have established a whom he had expected to meet, had left the city. He took the statement of the condition of things, and said that he would go to Greenfield to meet the chairman of the committee. His accounts agree with those of the treasurer to a cent, but there is some lack of clearness as to certain payments made. He was confident he could remove the causes of misunderstanding. The errors, he says, if any exist, are due to the fact that the year was the busiest in the history of the board, and that work piled up so rapidly that the bookkeeping was necessarily not so careful as if a bookkeeper had been employed for the work.

WHERE IS BURNS AT?

Both the City and the Street-Railroad Company Claiming His Services.

There is something wrong somewhere, and it is all about Street Commissioner Burns. It was stated severaldays ago that he had handed in his resignation, to take effect at once, for the reason that he expected to accept a position with the Citizens' Street-railway Company, but he has shown up at work at the city office as usual, and himself says that he does not know whether or not it is or will be true. Thursday a director in the Citizens' company said that Mr. Burns had accepted the company's offer, and that he would go to work for the company on Friday morning. Friday morning came, and Mr. Burns was still working for the city, and, what is more, from all the information that could be gained, he is hable to continue working for it. Martin Murphy, who is slated as his successor, said yesterday that he knew that Mr. Burns had not accepted the Citizens' company's offer, and said that he did not know that he would. "But one of the directors says that he is going with the company," was suggested.

"He is talking through his hat, and that is all there is about it," quoth Mr. Murphy. It is understood that the reason that Mr. Burns does not close up his contract with the Citizens' people is because they will not put a clause in it specifying how many years it is to last. He does not care to give up his position with the city for an uncertainty, and the city is not anxious for him to leave.
